

Case Study

Incremententa helps management team become more independent, efficient, and effective

Paragraf is a company delivering game changing graphene based electronic devices.

- Problem

Since its inception the company had been growing its staff levels at a fast rate. Rapidly changing reporting structures and a requirement to continually move and think fast created issues for the leadership and the team.

- Support provided by Incremententa

Incremententa have supported Paragraf to create a cohesive and high performing management team by delivering peer network support to the organisation's managers. Monthly group coaching sessions with the managers on subjects such as team working, decision-making and communication quickly improved the efficiency of the management team

- Outcome

- Staff morale improved and important staff members were retained in the team
- Greater effectiveness and efficiency of the management as a team
- Greater independence from the senior leadership freeing the leadership to work more on strategic activities.
